To Our Valued Customers,

This letter responds to your request for confirmation regarding the status of Calumet Refining, LLC mineral oil, petrolatum, wax, and gelled hydrocarbon products under Regulation EC 1223/2009 and its definition of nanomaterials.

Per Regulation EC 1223/2009, a nanomaterial is defined as:

“An insoluble or biopersistent and intentionally manufactured material with one or more external dimensions, or an internal structure, on the scale from 1 to 100 nm.”

Calumet confirms that:

- The above-listed product types are not defined as nanomaterials under this regulation.
- Our products are not manufactured with, nor are they expected to contain, any nanomaterials based on our knowledge of raw materials and refining processes.

For further questions, please contact Calumet’s Product Support Team at technical@clmt.com.

Sincerely,

Lynn Massad
Technical Market Development Manager
